eCore’s model of incorporating best practices in all aspects of online course creation and implementation has been a driving force in the enrollment growth of eCore for several years.

Incorporating the pillars of quality courses, strong student support, and qualified faculty, eCore has been on an upward trajectory of growth. Students are finding that not all online courses are created equally. When making decisions, they are becoming increasingly aware not only of price considerations, but also the relevance of quality, transferability, and reputation. eCore, working with USG institutions across Georgia, is filling all of these student needs.
